

Foreword – by Loral Langemeier

I'm so excited to watch Dianna Jacobsen, one of the leaders in my international business community, take this huge step forward in the pages ahead.

As a successful business woman for over 25 years, Dianna excels in sharing her skills and expertise in supporting the wider community of business owners in building their own businesses and creating their lives of freedom and success.

Our mutual passion for empowerment and success is what brought Dianna to work with me, and with the international Live Out Loud community of entrepreneurs, and this helps us to serve our clients throughout our daily undertakings.

When I first met Dianna in 2010, she was well on her way to freedom and success, having accomplished much in her years in the finance industry, and having achieved admirable levels of both qualifications and experience, which she now combines to create practical business development and wealth creation strategies for her clients to implement.

Dianna's approach of combining personal empowerment with business and financial strategic planning is unique. Her ability to accurately assess the key steps needed to overcome the barriers to success in each business she reviews, and to empower the people with whom she works, is inspirational.

I'm very grateful to have Dianna in my international team, and to watch her truly SHINE in the world!

Loral Langemeier

New York Times Best Selling Author

LiveOutLoud.com